Next Travel Review: Grace Bay Resorts and the 4th Annual Caribbean Food & Wine Festival September 23, 2014

On November 6 - 8, the Grace Bay Resorts in Turks & Caicos will help host the Fourth Annual Caribbean Food & Wine Festival. This weekend long festival will bring together international chefs and winemakers who partner with local chefs to create a truly memorable -- and always sold-out -- event focused on the local food and flavors of the island.

This year's all-star chefs include:

- Leah Cohen, the former "Top Chef" contestant of New York's Pig & Khao whose resume includes a very impressive stint at the luminous Eleven Madison Park
- David Lefevre, mentee of Chef Charlie Trotter and current Manhattan Beach Post resident
- Hans Peter Halder, the Austrian chef based in hotel12

Additionally, renowned vintners from Benzinger Family Winery, Cuvaison Estate, Weingut Salzl Seewinkelhof and Duck Pond Cellars & Desert Wind Winery will join together, along with those attending the food and wine festival, to help raise funds for The Department of Youth Affairs and Turks & Caicos's "Little Chefs" mentor program, which supports and encourages young local chefs to pursue careers in hospitality -- a vital industry of Turks and Caicos.

I am very excited to be flying to Turks & Caicos for the first time to attend this wonderful event, as well as staying at the luxurious Grace Bay Resorts!
